Lack of storage responsible for high water

by Jerry Grozelle

Mother Nature is responsible for the Gull River spilling over its banks.

All of the lakes in the headwaters of the Gull River watershed are at, or slightly above, capacity, says Blaine Trumbley, a water control technician with the Trent-Severn Waterway (TSW).

"It's a critical time," Trumbley said. "The lakes are brim full and we have to pass the water on down the system."

With the lakes at capacity, and the ground saturated from the late thaw and recent rain, there is no storage available in the Gull River system. Trumbley said the high water levels that are being experienced in Minden and other areas along the Gull River are unavoidable.

Trumbley compared the water situation in the lakes upstream of Minden to pouring a pail of water into a coffee cup. There is more water than the lakes can hold.

"It's a bit of a juggling act," Trumbley said. "We would rather cause people an inconvenience now than risk flooding them out later. We just send as much through as is prudent."

Trumbley said that TSW officials keep an eye on the weather reports. But the forecasts aren't detailed enough to predict the effect on water levels. "They never predict the amount of rain or the intensity," he said.

Part of the reason for the unusually high water levels in Minden is the fact that 45 millimetres of rain fell over a 48 hour period about 10 days ago.

"As soon as we start to see an improvement, we'll cut the water flow back," Trumbley said.

If the weather co-operates, Trumbley said it will be the middle of this week before the level of the river starts to drop.

Keith and Judy Hardy, who live on McKnight Drive in Minden, must drive or walk through about 10 inches of water to get to their home. Keith said he spoke with Mac Ellis of the TSW in Haliburton this past Friday and he was told that stop logs have been added at a couple of dams upstream from Minden, which will cause some restriction of flow. But everything hinges on the weather. More rain will aggravate the situation.

Hardy said he thought the high water last year was bad when it encroached onto part of his circular driveway.

"I never expected to be surrounded by water," he said. "I don't think we can take much more.. All we can do is wait it out and hope and pray for sunshine."

Judy Hardy stands on one of the driveway entrances to her home. The fence, seen peeking above the water, marks the edge of the circular driveway at the front of her McKnight Drive home. Water from the Gull River has completely surrounded her property.

Riverside residents feel not enough is being done about the high water

While mother Nature is being blamed for the high water in Minden, residents along the river aren't very pleased with the explanation. With yards flooded, some houses surrounded by the rising water, roads flooded and wet basements being reported all along the Gull River in Minden, some residents are wondering if the cause cannot be traced to the management of the watershed.

"It was what I would call a normal spring," said Chris Dollo, a riverside resident who has seen much of her back yard disappear under the rising water. "The melt seemed to be slow and we thought there was little to worry about, but this is ridiculous."

Dollo, who lives on Anson Street, said the authorities don't appear to be concerned about the problems they are creating for the waterfront residents.

"The high water is eroding portions of the bank along my shoreline," said Gloria Lemieux, a neighbour of Dollo's. As she stood in her back yard discussing the problem, the outflow from her sump pump kicked in several times spewing water across her dock and back into the river.

"The last time this happened it left a green slime all over the lawn. It wasn't very pleasant I'll tell you.

Another nearby neighbour Judy Hardy, is equally upset by the conditions. Her home on McKnight drive is dry, but the water backing up from the river has inundated her circular driveway, front yard and has completely surrounded her house. She and her husband Keith must either leave the property by car or don boots to wade through the water to get to dry pavement. They park the car on the one portion of lawn that is not covered by water.

Hardy has contacted the Trent Sebern Waterway authorities on a number of occasions to complain about the situation, but has received lit-

Additional cuts made to Health Unit

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit announced layoffs last week. Five staff members spread through all of the unit's regional offices — including Haliburton — received notices which will take effect July 1.

The staff include clerical workers and dental educators.

Medical officer of health Dr. Alex Hukowich told The Times last week the layoffs are due principally to provincial cuts to the agency's budget, and in part to population shifts that change the funding levels, and service realignments that mean the unit no longer has the same mandate as it had previously.

The unit's budget was cut by ten per cent last year, and an additional one per cent this year. In addition, the provincial Ministry of Environment and Energy (MOEE), which has been responsible for sewage system inspections, and which has had a contract with the unit since the 70's to carry them out, is no longer responsible for those inspections — that duty now falls to municipalities.

Hukowich said cuts for the unit have been difficult, principally for two reasons: first, the unit has never had to deal with layoffs of any significant scale previously, and second, that by virtue of the unpredictable nature of public health and public health crises, it's difficult to gauge future resource needs.

"It will have an impact on the services," said Hukowich. "What the nature of that impact will be it's hard to say. Clearly we want to maintain as many of the services we offer — and there are some things that become more crucial than others — but unfortunately some of the things that are the most crucial are those most difficult to plan. In other words if there's an outbreak of something and we have to round up resources, then we'll have to drop everything else and concentrate on that for a while. If we're fortunate and we don't have those, or we're able to avoid them by doing better things in other ways, we may be able to minimize the impact the public notices. It becomes part of the ongoing difficulty of public health that a lot of what we do is not noticeable until it's gone."

The layoffs aren't the first the unit

JUMPING FOR HEART: Archie Stouffer Elementary School students raised $5,519.54 for the Heart and Stroke Foundation at the annual Jump Rope For Heart fundraiser. Haliburton County elementary school students gathered a total of $19,516.20 for the Foundation. Airborne as they skip to their goal are ASES students Heather Little, Erin Fielding, Brittany Prentice and Kim Lindsay.

Cuts could affect septic inspections has announced. The unit issued notices to a number of clerical and health inspection staff, following provincial announcements with respect to septic inspections being transferred to municipalities.

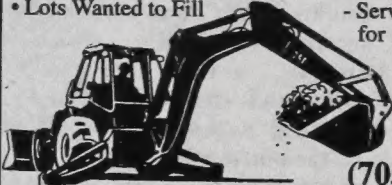

Hukowich says the unit would be happy to contract with the municipalities to deliver the service, but in absence of any such deal, they will have to proceed with the layoffs. Furthermore, he says, he expects that unless the unit can get agreements at least on a county-wide basis with the municipalities, forming such contracts isn't going to be practical.

What might be the overall effect on public health, he says, is still hard to say, but there is room for both caution and concern. Says Hukowich, "If we're able to contract with the municipalities, where the rules are enforced and there are consistent rules, then it doesn't worry me... But if all the municipalities decide to do it on their own, or any municipality decides to do it on its own, preventing us really from forming a contract with the remaining municipalities, then yes that does worry me. I think it will introduce a tremendous amount of inconsistency for one thing. I think the danger will always be that a municipality will prefer the shorter term gains of development, and not consider the longer term risks of failed systems, health issues relating to failed systems, contamination of groundwater supplies due to failed systems. I think the advantage of the current situation is that the health unit is independent, approaches it from the view of health as opposed to the view of development. If it's all going to be based on development the danger is you'll get development on septic systems which won't work if they're too closely concentrated, if the lot sizes aren't big enough — and at some point, then you'll have either a health issue, and the only answer at that point will be to put in municipal services, which may not be cost effective — or continue to have sewage in ditches, or polluted wells, or all of that."

Residents feel no one is concerned about flooding

the satisfaction. She said they were told that they are experiencing the consequences of building a home on or near the river's flood plain.

In response to that suggestion, Dollo noted that the river is the reason many people are attracted to Minden. "That is why we live here....because of the river....but not when it is like this."

"We need someone to speak up for us here," Hardy commented. "The municipality says it is the TSW responsibility. Where is our MPP in all this? Something has to be done."

Dollo adds that the high water is making the town look "terrible".

The problem is evident as well on the west side of the river where the land between the houses on Orde Street and Deep Bay Road has disappeared under the water. They note as well that other than for the raised driveway access, the Minden Sewage treatment plant is completely surrounded by water.

Upstream from the Main Street bridge North water street is flooded at the low point across from the Clergy House. As well some of the houses along that section of the road have had portions of their yards inundated.

Earlier last week the municipality closed the street to traffic and opened the access route through the back of the arena. While that route remains open, the barriers have been removed from North Water Street and poles have been planted along the side of the flooded section so drivers can drive through the flooded portion and have some indication of where the pavement is located.

While the three riverside residents are hopeful that weather conditions will assist the TSW in reducing water levels, they are still not pleased that what appeared to be a normal spring melt, should result in a prolonged period of flooding along the river.

Taking the flooding with a sense of humor, one resident of Anson Street has equipped his lawn jockey with a fishing pole, line and lure.

Chris Dollo, Judy Hardy and Gloria Lemieux at a picnic table in the Dollo back yard on Anson Street. More than half of the riverside yard, indicated by the flag pole on the right and the tree on the left, is now under water, a result of the Gull River spilling over its banks.

AHM council meets

Responds to skateboarding complaints

The council of the townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden held its regular meeting last Thursday.

Issues that were addressed include: ongoing skateboarding on sidewalks in town, licensing for the Jenna Tompkins Memorial Slo Pitch Tournament and water and sewer billing rates.

Council received a letter about skateboarders using the sidewalks on the main street during business hours. It was noted that the bylaw enforcement officer had talked to some of the skateboarders and there had been a positive effect. Council agreed to wait on the problem and address it at the next meeting, if necessary.

Council accepted an application for a building permit that was required to erect a beer tent for the Jenna Tompkins Memorial Slo Pitch Tournament. The permit is to be given once there is proof of insurance.

Council discussed the change of water and sewer billing rates to a few local businesses. A re-evaluation of all commercial buildings was done to obtain equal and fair rates. There was evidence that some businesses had been under-billed for a period of time and these mistakes were corrected.

Chester says prosperity will follow tax cuts

(This is the first in a series of profiles of the federal election candidates seeking the Victoria/Haliburton seat.)

Strong involvement with the community and commitment to the people are two things that Progressive Conservative candidate Lorne Chester brings with him into the upcoming federal election.

Chester has lived in Lindsay since 1973, and is a lawyer with the McQuarrie, Hill, Walden, Chester and McLeod law firm. He has been practicing law with that firm since he moved to Lindsay. He has served as a councillor, reeve, Warden of the County of Victoria and most recently was the mayor of Lindsay from 1988 to 1991.

Chester has been involved with the Progressive Conservative party for almost 30 years.

PC candidate Lorne Chester

"I ran for the PC's in 1993 federally, and I have worked in every Progressive Conservative campaign since 1973, both provincial and federal," says Chester.

He feels the main issue for all ridings in Canada is jobs, and the Haliburton Victoria riding is no exception. The unemployment rate for the area has risen to between 12.6 and 12.8 percent, says Chester. He feels the solution to the problem is a balanced budget and cuts to employment insurance and personal tax rates. With more money in the employer's pockets as well as increased money in the consumer's pockets there's going to be increased spending.

"Tax cuts later usually means tax cuts never," says Chester, which is why he feels cutting the taxes must be a top priority for his party.

Health care and the erosion of the health services in the Victoria/Haliburton area are also of concern to Chester. In order to combat this, Chester states that within two to three years, transfer payments to the provinces and territories will be increased to $2 billion, more than the other parties are promising.

Chester feels there is a lot of room for reduction in government spending.

"There are a number of areas where waste and duplication can be eliminated," says Chester.

By removing the excess spending, money can be better used elsewhere to serve the people.

Chester is in favour of repealing Bill C-68, the Firearms Act. The Conservatives are taking the stance that the criminal use of firearms must be prevented and strictly punished.

"Farmers and duck hunters don't need to be instant criminals," says Chester. "we're interested in safe handling, safe use and safe transport of firearms, not criminalizing law-abiding gun owners."

If elected, Chester has a number of ideas for keeping the communities involved in the effects of the government on the riding. To ensure that the voices of the people are heard, Chester plans to hold quarterly meetings moving the site each time to other towns within the riding. He invites all the people to "come and tell me what I should hear."

Also planned are monthly meetings with individual groups such as the agricultural community, members of the tourism industry and the small business community.

Sneaker Day returns Friday

Walking for health...and prizes

by Morris Duff

Is there anything Minden area residents like more than a lottery? Organizers of this year's Sneaker Day are hoping that walking is as high on the list as winning prizes.

All who walk at Sneaker Day on Friday will be eligible to participate in three lotteries, regardless of how far they walk.

First, there will be a local draw for a SummerActive T-shirt. Then, all the tickets will be sent to Toronto where another draw will be held. Prizes will be awarded to walkers across the province.

Finally, all the tickets will be sent to Ottawa for a prize worth approximately $5000. The winner, plus a partner, will choose one of four trips.

They include: a five day bicycle tour in the Banff and Jasper area; a six day hiking trip in Banff and Soho; a five day bicycle jaunt through Quebec's Eastern Townships; or a six day hiking trip to Kejimikujik National Park in Nova Scotia. All expenses are covered, including $250 spending money. The prizes have been donated by the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Participants can complete entry forms at Minden's Sneaker Day Walk, which will start at the gazebo by the bridge. Walkers will proceed at their own pace, (this is not a competition), to the end of Orde St. on the north side of the river, then return by the same pleasant route along the river. The distance is slightly less than three kilometres.

The purpose is to encourage walking for health. There is no fund raising nor cost for participants. So dust off those sneakers, get out and walk and, maybe, win.

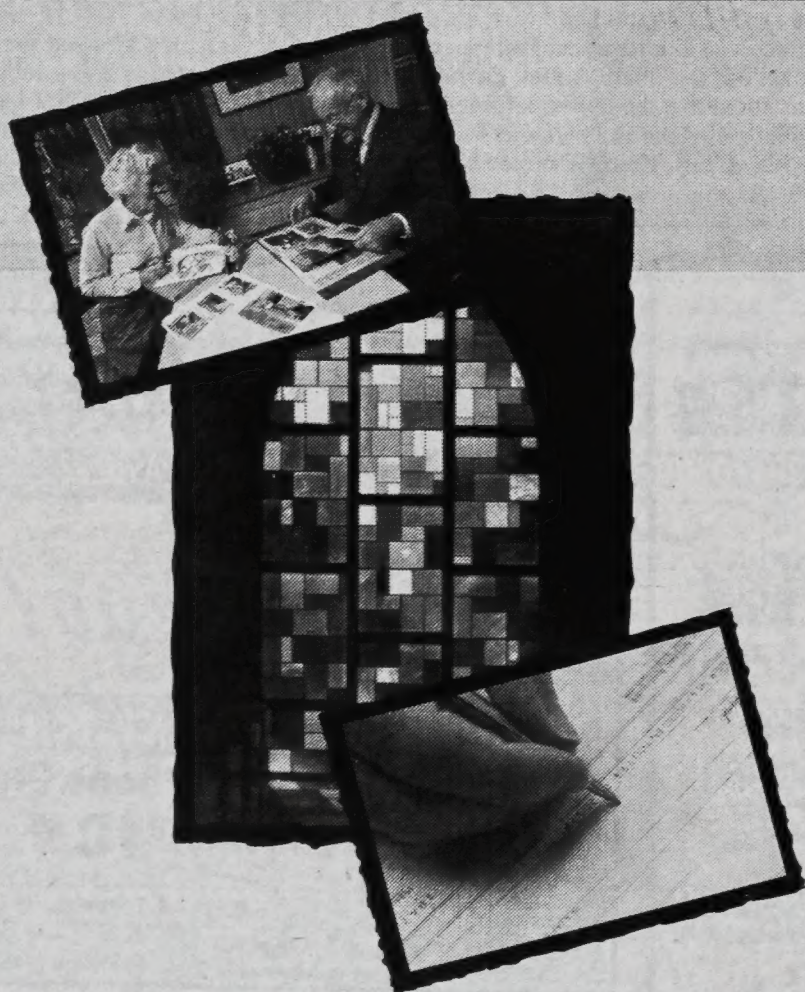

Candidates meeting planned

An all-candidates meeting has been tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, May 21 at the Minden Community Centre. The meeting is being co-ordinated by The Times in co-operation with the Victoria/Haliburton candidates in the June 2 federal election.

The meeting will give local residents an opportunity to hear the candidates speak about their platforms. A question and answer period will also be held.

As of press time, not all candidates had confirmed their availability. The date should be confirmed early this week. Check Cable Ten or next week's edition of The Times for final details.

Missing child found sleeping in tent

A Monday evening search and rescue call for a lost eight year old ended anticlimactically when the child was found — asleep in the tent where he was supposed to be all along.

The call came from a remote region near Big Hawk Lake, around seven in the evening. A family tenting on the shore reported they'd lost one of their party. Temperatures were low, a steady rain was falling, and it was getting dark.

The Stanhope volunteer fire department, several local OPP units, OPP canine units, and the Haliburton area volunteer search and rescue team were summoned to the scene. Stanhope's volunteers arrived first, and travelled by boat across two lakes — portaging their eighteen foot craft into the second — to get to the group's campsite.

After arriving on the far shore, the volunteers located the child within 20 minutes of landing, asleep in the tent.

Another ten minute search ensued, while the department searched for an adult member of the party, who had gone looking for the child. All were accounted for by shortly after 9 p.m.

OPP officers board a boat to travel to the site where the child went missing Monday night.

Municipal officials still studying funding realignment

Local sources were reluctant to comment, as of last week, on what the effects will be, on this region, of recent changes to the province's 'Who does What' legislation.

The province encountered stiff criticism from a wide range of stakeholders following the introduction of the original bill, which proposed to shift a much greater proportion of program costs for long term care and welfare programs to the municipalities, while the province would take over the entire cost of education.

The revised bill announced May 1 seems to have somewhat diluted the approach. The province will now take over 50 per cent of the cost of education, and the entire cost of long term care programs. Social assistance program benefits will be funded much as they are now — with 80 per cent of the cost coming from the province, rather than on a 50/50 split, as had been previously proposed. Municipalities will however now pay half the administration costs of those programs.

The proposed changes come primarily at the behest of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO). AMO spokespersons had warned immediately following the announcement of the initial bill — along with other critics — that funding welfare programs locally was ill-advised, in that in a period of local economic stagnation, jurisdictions would have the least ability to pay for the programs at precisely the time demand would be greatest. Those same dynamics have bankrupted some cities' assistance funds during economic crises — such as the Great Depression — previous to provincial and national governments' assuming of greater responsibility for the programs.

AMO had also proposed that the province set the mill rate on a province-wide basis for the 50 per cent portion of education taxes still to be levied locally, but that local boards retain the discretionary power of raising taxes up to five per cent locally. The government has accepted the former, but rejected the latter proposal — meaning the province will set mill rates across the province. Municipal affairs minister Al Leach announced at the same time that the province would freeze the provincial mill rate once it has been set.

County warden Murray Fearrey would only comment cautiously last week that the county hasn't had a chance yet to assess the impact on its ledgers in hard numbers, but commented generally that it seems a positive sign that the province is listening to constituent groups' concerns.

Board of education chair Cheryl Murdoch said similarly that she's hesitant to guess where the changes will lead in terms of local expenses.

Said Murdoch, "It's one of these things where on the surface it might seem one way, and when you start delving into it, it might be totally different. I'd very much like to think that the taxes would stay the same or go lower, but I don't know, I have a bad feeling that no matter how it goes somehow the taxes are going to end up going up... When we looked at the possibilities just generally last year, of amalgamation with Victoria, it put taxes up."

Murdoch said the government decision to freeze the mill rates might well also put the future amalgamated boards under some difficult pressures, and that while if the government were to begin to maintain stable funding levels, this would be an improvement, she isn't entirely confident this is going to happen any time soon.

MPP Chris Hodgson described the changes in a release as a responsive move on the part of a government that always intended to make its changes in cooperation with its transfer partners. Said Hodgson, "We said all along if anyone had a better idea that we would be willing to listen. We said we would consider another plan as long as it meets the objective of providing children equal opportunity for a quality education... The municipalities had a concern with the impact our earlier proposals would have on them, and we have acted on that concern."

Complimentary care task force meets in Minden

To encourage discussion and gather input from community members, the Complimentary Care Task Force of the Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Council will be hosting a public forum later this month.

"Interested citizens and users of complimentary care services will have an opportunity to comment on the role complimentary medicine and alternative therapies may play in a restructured health care system," Michael O'Reilly, chairman of the task force stated.

The meeting in Minden is one of a series being held throughout the district to gather input.

The Minden meeting is scheduled for Thursday May 29 in the common room of the Agnes Jamieson Gallery/Library, starting at 7 p.m.

First site opens today in MindenPublic now has access to the web

by Andrew Milne

Public web access is now available in the Haliburton County area.

The local Community Access Program (CAP) project's first kiosk in the Minden area — at the Chamber of Commerce on Highway 35 — will be open as of today.

The kiosk — a workstation with web access — is open for the use of anyone who wishes to surf the electronic world. A trained volunteer will also be available at all times to assist people new to the net.

Within a few weeks, the group expects to have machines set up at five sites in the county — in Gooderham, Wilberforce, Stanhope and Haliburton, in addition to Minden.

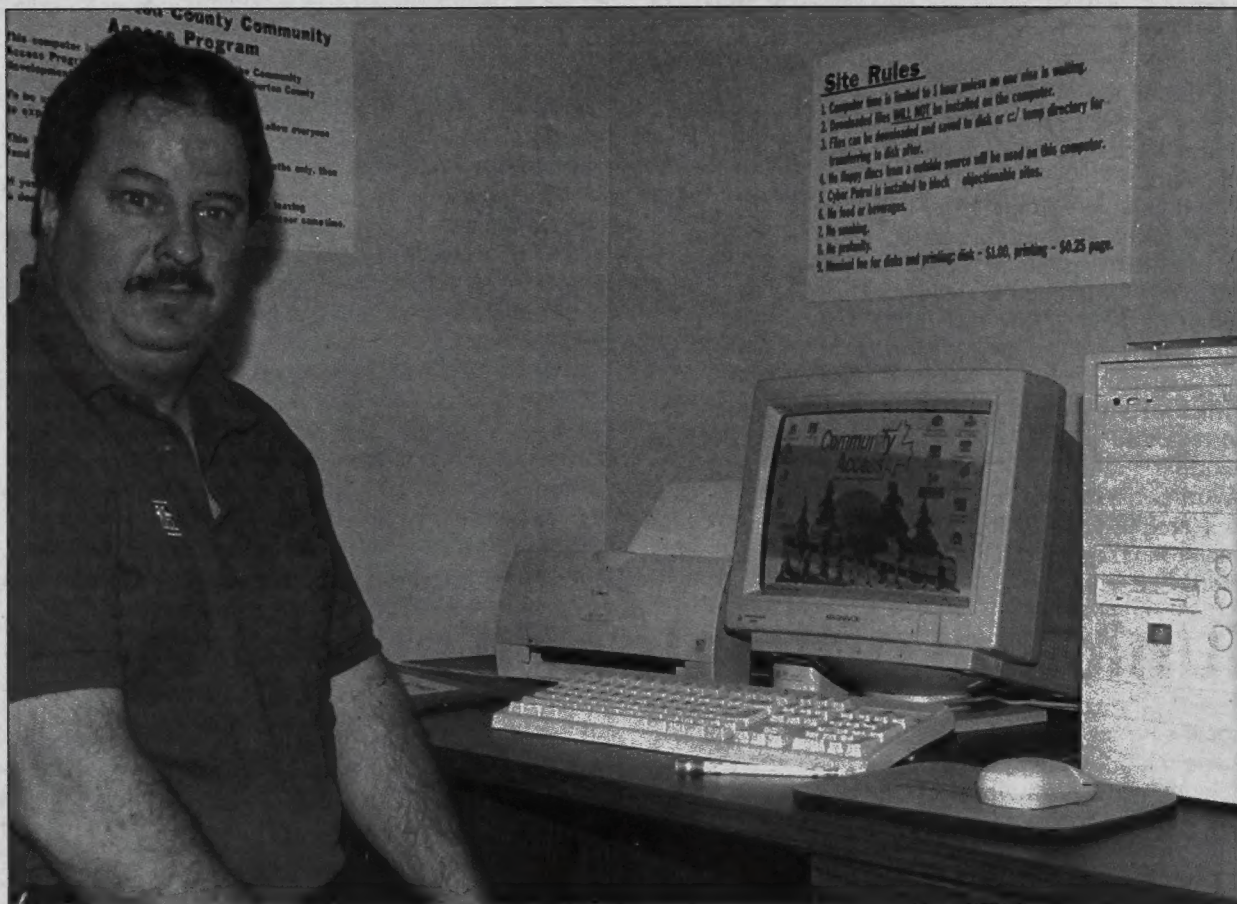

John Pentney, a CAP volunteer, says the group hopes the sites will serve as an introduction to the net for people who otherwise wouldn't have access.

"They can use them for job searches, for research, whatever they want, really."

The group also expects to offer local residents the option of setting up their own web pages — restricted to nonprofit use only.

The CAP program — meant to encourage community internet connectivity — is funded by Industry Canada. The local project depends heavily on volunteers. Local partners include the Haliburton County Development Corporation, Halhinet, and Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Hours of operation for the sites aren't firm yet, but Pentney says the organization is aiming for 10am to 10pm, seven days a week. Children under sixteen must be accompanied by an adult.

John Pentney is one of a large number of volunteers involved in establishing public access computer sites throughout Haliburton County. The Minden site, located at the Chamber of Commerce office on Highway 35, begins operation today.

The value of Health Units

As the impact of health care cutbacks and restraint begin to be felt, people are starting to realize the true value of the system this society has designed to protect the physical well-being of all its citizens. And as these impacts ripple through the community, those we elect are starting to respond. Health care is the top priority in the current federal election and in the policy moves of the provincial government, because, as the politicians are learning, it is the top priority of the people of Canada.

While we as Canadians are concerned about how government policy will affect our access to acute and long term care services, there is another aspect of a community's health care which has been quietly been eroded over the last few years. Not as prominent as hospitals and emergency room access, less visible than the availability of doctors or long-term care facilities, the services provided by the Health Units of Ontario are as vital to maintaining the well-being of our citizens as any of these higher profile services. In some respects, the programs provided by the Health Units may be the over-looked key to helping to keep the cost of health care in check.

Over the years Health Units have been given the responsibility for public health education, ensuring the quality of our drinking water by monitoring the operation of public and private septic systems, ensuring the cleanliness of public eating establishments and co-ordinating responses to community-wide threats to our health and well-being. These and the many other services of Health Units are vital to the quality of life of our communities. They are predicated on the idea that a small investment in education and prevention can save a lot of suffering, not to mention money, later on.

It is distressing therefore to see that the financial support for Health Units and the services they provide is being eroded in the name of financial expediency. Not only is an excellent system of community health protection being threatened, a body of knowledge and expertise is being lost. The sad part is, as a consequence, the dollars saved now by such cuts may have to be spent many times over in the future in health care treatment services.

Owner is responsible

Editor:

Re: Hit & run inconsiderate; An open letter to Rocky's owner.

Let me begin by saying I am a pet lover and sympathize with your loss. I cannot begin to imagine the loss of one of my own pets.

That said, I can not agree with your letter.

You hope that the driver doesn't treat his children as he treated your dog. I hope you don't treat your children as your dog was treated. To let a beloved pet loose to wander on the highway (or any other road) is both irresponsible and illegal. There is a leash and tether law in your township. You are more to blame for Rocky's demise than the hit and run driver since there was something you could have done to prevent this accident from ever occurring.

When you remember Rocky and feel his loss, perhaps you will think twice of allowing another pet to wander loose.

David Sadler
Stanhope

P.S. If the driver is reading this, you are entitled to compensation from Rocky's owners for any damage incurred to your vehicle.

Pain of the accident is felt by the driver as well

Editor:

In response to the letter about a dog being hit (Hit and run inconsiderate, May 5), I'd like to say that it is rather assuming of you to think that the driver of the vehicle was inconsiderate.

Without knowledge of what actually happened you may be causing more grief to the person who hit your dog.

The person who hit the dog was terribly upset and devastated that it had happened; stopped the vehicle to see if the dog was okay, only to notice that it had died instantly. This person went to get help from a nearby neighbour to try to find the owner. Nobody could be found in the immediate area. This person asked a police officer what to do about the dog and was told to just leave him at the side of the road and the appropriate authorities would dispose of the dog.

This same incident happened to my beloved Bruiser at Christmas time after which I could not even retrieve his body because the MTO had picked him up and buried him. I had to pick up his collar at the police station where the driver had taken it; not knowing what else to do.

The man was with his son and was terribly upset, having pets himself. He left his name with the officer stating he was from Bracebridge.

Although I was distressed about my little dog's demise I still had thought to call the man and reassure him that all was well and not to be too distressed over it.

My thought was that there was nothing I could do about the dog, but I could still console the driver.

Laying blame and causing others to feel guilty over our loss does not help the healing process. What would be better would be to admit our own mistake at not having kept our dogs tied up where there would have been no risk of accident.

It was, after all, an accident and not a deliberate attack on our beloved pets.

Admitting that we are in pain over the loss helps the healing process along.

I hope you get over yours as I did mine.
God bless your Rocky!

Questions raised about the hospital move

Editor:

The following is a compilation of thoughts regarding the proposed moving of our Minden Hospital to the Hyland Crest site. Not all of the concerns are necessarily mine, but I have spoken to various members of our community and this is briefly what Mindenites have to say on the matter:

- what are the costs of running the new Hyland Crest and the hospital separately compared to running them under the same roof or as one facility?
- what about loss of jobs? Will there be any if the two are combined? If so, will our present health care decline?
- will the Hyland Crest facility be as visible and easily accessible to people from out of town?
- what about traffic problems within town especially thinking of our pedestrians? It gets pretty busy during the summer, and if you have someone in your vehicle suffering from a heart attack, the extra time it takes to go through town might be too long.

- the heliport is already in place where there are no residential concerns. If the hospital is moved, another heliport would have to be built at an extra cost.
- why not build at the site where the hospital is now if all we are going to have is an E.R. like we have now - or upgrade to M.O.H. standards?
- the existing site has potential, lots of rooms that are not being fully utilized.
- a special note. The Rotarians started a Minden Hospital Building Fund. When the money was donated was it for a new hospital or was it to upgrade our existing hospital? How much is in the fund? Were the donations intended for the purpose of moving our hospital to the Hyland Crest site?

- if the Hospital is moved to Hyland Crest, would another access road be necessary? Has this been costed out or is this included in the cost estimates?
- some people said they don't care where it is, as long as we have a hospital.
- if the community doesn't care what happens to our hospital - don't bother writing to Queen's Park.

You can call Chris Hodgson. His number's in the book. Start a petition - someone, please, before the shovel goes in the ground and it's too late.

Bess Cox,
Minden.

No right to trespass

Editor:

60,000 acres are not enough for bear hunters. They feel they have the right to let their dogs and themselves trespass on private property. The dogs have radio operated collars. The hunters (owners) can apparently walk (hunt) on your property to retrieve the dogs, this makes it legal. I am sure they would not use the phones they carry to report to the dog handlers that a bear was near.

With all this trespassing, I do not feel at ease walking our small 200 acre holding during bear hunting season.

The dogs come from all corners across your land - tree the bear after howling and barking and then a shot - then deadly silence. Till next time - makes for a pleasant walking time. The dogs aren't allowed to trespass and their owners with their remote control don't need to. Would you like to get between dogs chasing a bear and the bear? I think not.

This is called bear management: I wonder if anyone told the bear, before the last deadly shot. The M.N.R. can't or won't do anything. I think it is time to make the laws about trespass a lot stricter.

Mrs. Olive Morgan,
Kinmount.

P.S. The 60,000 acres is Crown Land leased for Bear Management.

The rules

The Times welcomes signed letters to the editor on subjects of interest to our readers. Short letters are most likely to be chosen for publication, but the use of any material is at the discretion of the editor. The editor reserves the right to edit letters to meet space requirements, for clarity or to avoid obscenity, libel or invasion of privacy. Stogies are making a come back

After a man goes back and visits his boyhood town he discovers it wasn't the old home that he wanted. It was his boyhood.

Anon

You don't have to be Lawrence Welk or Pat Boone to know that the nostalgia business is alive and well, here at the butt-end of the twentieth century. Just take a long look around.

Down the street from where I work there's a cafe-cum-night club that could have come right out of a Nick and Nora Charles mystery movie. The sound system features music from the thirties and forties. Smoky old saxophone serenades... vocals by legends like Rosemary Clooney, Tony Bennett, Lena Horne and Frank Sinatra before he got his Senior Citizen's card.

It's Lounge Music. And it's back in a big way.

The same joint features old-fashioned drinks too. Such as... well, Old-Fashioneds. Not to mention Manhattans, Margueritas and that quintessential Lounge Libation - the Martini.

I've never been able to figure out the appeal of the Martini. Gin and Vermouth are two of the more taste-bud shattering forms that alcohol can take. Put them together and you've got a drink that ought to be banned under the Geneva Convention.

But no, Martinis are back.

And they're hot. So hot that the Internet is awash with Websites featuring thousands of wild and woolly cocktail recipes.

Beats me. Maybe it's the olive. After all, the logo for the rock group U-2's world tour is a giant olive on top of a toothpick.

Retro-fashion is big again too. I keep running into guys wearing suits with lapels that bat colonies could nest under. The same guys (I think they're trying to come across as Rudolph Valentino incarnate) favour those skinny ties that went out about 1957. The ladies that hang off their arm are swathed in boas and frilly little frocks that I haven't seen since I Love Lucy went off the air.

Long-playing records are back as well. Yuppies seem to have discovered that after spending umpteen thousand dollars on their state-of-the-art laser disc, digital extravaganzotic stereo system, what they really prefer to hear is the scratchy, intimate music they get from good-old fashioned vinyl.

Incontrovertible proof that we have completely lost it culturally? I offer Exhibit A: the resurgence of the cigar. Suddenly, all the Beautiful People are appearing in public, with giant, stinky stogies stuck in their pussies. My corner newsstand is abloom with magazines like Cigar Aficionado and For Cigar Lovers Only featuring glossy full-colour photographs of Hollywood glitteratti like Arnold Schwarzenegger, Danny DeVito, Mel Gibson, Tom Cruise - even Wayne and Janet Gretzky - all puffing away on Havanas the size of French baguettes.

I submit that when smoldering cigars become a fashion statement, a culture is in a serious free fall. What you're seeing is a society so bankrupt for new ideas that it's snatching up old ones.

But that's okay. Plus ça change, as the French say.

Reminds me of the story about the college kid who answers a knock on the door. A middle-aged stranger is standing there. "May I come in?" asks the stranger. "This is the room I had when I went to college."

The kid lets the man in, and the man tours the room, lost in memories. "Yep" he murmurs, "same old room. Same old furniture. Same old view from the window. Same old closet."

And he opens the closet door to find a young woman, in a state of, as the French say, deshabille, cowering in the corner.

"Uh, that's my sister," says the college kid.

"Yep," says the visitor, "same old story."

Yet another dubious sales pitch

It all started off innocently enough....a phone caller inquiring about how our debit machine was working.

I replied that it was working just fine, thank you very much. The assumption at this point was that the caller was a representative of the company which installed the machine late last year, just checking in to make sure everything was operating properly... fair enough....good customer service and all that.

"Do you clean it regularly?" he enquired.

Well, I had to admit that it wasn't on my daily cleaning schedule. "How about the heads? Do you clean them every day?"

I didn't recall the installer suggesting that we had to clean the metal heads within the system which read the credit cards which we 'swipe' through the machine. "Nope," I told the caller, "I haven't cleaned the heads recently."

"Well," he told me confidently, "We'll send you two cleaning cards which you can just swipe through the machine a couple times a day and that will keep the heads clean."

Again, thinking I was talking with the company which installed the debit machine, I asked if it was really a necessary procedure...especially since the heads hadn't been cleaned since the machine was installed and it seemed to have worked fine. He suggested it would be a good practise to get into and besides, the cards were free.

On the Street

by Times Staff

"Fine, send them along," I said reacting to the word 'free'.

"I certainly will," he commented breezily. Then adding quickly, "and we also have some debit machine supplies that we have been holding for you. The price on these is about to go up in a couple of days but fortunately I have set some aside for you. I have to send them right away however or you won't be able to get them at this special price."

It was at this point that I realized I wasn't talking to an employee of the company which installed the debit machine. The man on the other end of the phone had (successfully) attempted to make me believe he was a representative and was trying to sell supplies for the debit machine. Supplies that I didn't need, that I didn't ask to have set aside for me and that were probably over-priced.

I had run into this type of sales pitch before, as most business people have. The product varies from toner for photo copiers and printers, light bulbs, listings in some directory to cases of fax paper. In all instances, the product is available at a "special price" and for a limited time only. "Can we ship this tomorrow for you so you won't miss out on this special offer?"

No thank you.

I relate this story if only to alert merchants in the area to this type of phone scam. No doubt there is nothing technically illegal about the process, however, I think it is sneaky and dishonest to use this approach to make a sale.

WELCOME BACK!

It's that time of year again when the many seasonal residents make their first appearance in the Highlands. Once again this year The Times is please to help area businesses extend a warm welcome to the many people returning to our community.

Cartoonist Gil Parcell has created yet another welcome back poster for merchants to display in their windows. As usual, the poster is designed to allow those with a penchant for the creative to add their own dashes of colour.

Times sales representatives will be distributing the posters during the week and hopefully everyone will have them prominently displayed by the time the first waves of vehicles roll up Highway 35 and across Highway 118.

Winter leagues finished for the season

County Bowling Centre's winter leagues have come to a close. The overall winners from each league are as follows:

B Team Plus - Legion 636 - Monday afternoon

"Oh Al" - Monday Mixed - Monday evening

Strikers - Tuesday Seniors - Tuesday afternoon

One Ballers - Tuesday Mixed - Tuesday evening

The Alley Cats - Thursday Seniors - Thursday afternoon

Webels - Thursday Mixed - Thursday evening

Bantams - Youth Bowling Council - Saturday morning

Junior/Senior - Youth Bowling Council - Saturday morning

The League House Championships were held on Sunday, May 4. Each of the overall league winners participated in this event. To determine the house champions, the bowl-off was based on pins over average. This year the champions were the junior/senior combination team of the Youth Bowling Council. This is the third consecutive year that youth bowlers have won the house championship.

The adult bowlers congratulated the youth champs, but vowed to break the winning streak next year. In an effort to unseat the youth bowlers, many of the adults have joined summer leagues to practice.

Discovering Canada

by Kevin Brezina

In a time when most stories about our educational system have at least one occurrence of the word 'cutback' in them, it's encouraging to see that sometimes, the school and members of the community can come together to make something special happen. Programs such as ELM and the literary society's Coffee House are good examples of this.

Recently, HHSS students Amanda Duncombe and I benefited from such cooperation by taking part in the Rotary Adventure in Citizenship program. This four day trip to our nation's capital was a chance for over two hundred students from across the country to meet each other, talk about some of our country's problems, and to have a whole lot of fun.

The program is organized by the Ottawa-Rotary club in cooperation with Rotary clubs across the country, including those in Minden and Haliburton. Its purpose is to give participants an in-depth look at the country through tours and lectures, but more importantly through contact with students from other parts of the country.

On Sunday morning, the program formally commenced with a lecture by Professor Gregory Bloomquist, at Carleton University, on the choices facing young people today. We then broke off into groups to discuss Prof. Bloomquist's main points and in doing so, get to know one another. After lunch, we crossed the river into Hull, and visited the Canadian Museum of Civilization. After an hour of free time in the museum,

Confirmation of registration

If your name is on the voters list, you should have received your Confirmation of Registration notice by now. If you received your notice, and the name and address on it are correct, keep the notice for reference. It tells you the name of your riding, when and where you can vote and how to reach your returning officer. If the name or address on the notice is not yours, or if you didn't receive a notice, call Elections Canada immediately. To exercise your right to vote, you must be a Canadian citizen and at least 18 years old on election day. Your name must be on the list of electors to vote. So be sure to check if you've received your Confirmation of Registration notice. It's a step in the right direction.

we attended a free showing of "Wings of Courage" in the museum's IMAX theatre. To finish the day off, we ate dinner at Cabane en Bois, enjoyed lively French Canadian music, and even learned a few traditional dances. It was a great ending to a great first day.

Monday morning saw us in the Central Block of the Parliament buildings. In exception to the normal rules, and because parliament is not currently in session due to the up-coming federal election, we were allowed to actually sit inside the House of Commons at the M.P.s' desks.

We were given an overview of how a typical day in the House would run, and then met the Speaker of the House, Mr. Gilbert Parent; a very interesting and entertaining person. We then moved into the Senate Chamber to be addressed by Mme. Marie P. Poulin, Speaker of the Senate. Again we enjoyed exemption from the normal rules of visitation and sat in the senators' boxes.

After Mme. Poulin's speech, we left Parliament Hill for a bus tour of Ottawa that eventually led to city hall, where we ate dinner. The after dinner program involved breaking into groups of about 20 and then having each group create a short skit on a given topic or situation such as the media-weary inhabitants of Winnipeg having to put up with yet another newscast, or a documentary about Canada from an American perspective. We finished off the evening on a light note by presenting our skits in front of the whole group, and everyone seemed to have a lot of fun, both acting and watching.

The next day we journeyed to the University of Ottawa to listen to three members of the faculty discuss a number of economic and social issues concerning Canadians today. This eventually led to a very heated discussion about race relations in our country; one of the only times any strong emotions surfaced in the group. This interesting debate unfortunately had to be cut short by the organizers in an effort to maintain our busy schedule.

From the University Campus, we travelled to the Statistics Canada building to partake in some statistics-related activities. Though it might not have been the most entertaining part of the trip, the rest of the day made up for it.

At 6:00 o'clock we returned to Parliament Hill for a semi-formal gathering in one of the auditoriums in the West Block. After a bit of social time, we were addressed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and an M.P. from one of the Ottawa ridings. We then walked to the National Arts Centre for dinner and a much anticipated Video Dance. The party lasted well into the night, and a good time was had by all.

Wednesday was our final day in Ottawa, and it began with a special sitting of the Citizenship Court of Canada at the National Gallery. Here we received our certificates of citizenship and a brief address by the gallery's director. This was followed by a tour of the Gallery, and finally, a luncheon with our host families. It was here that we said goodbye to our host families and one another, and headed back to our homes all across Canada.

I would like to thank the local Rotary club for giving me the opportunity to take part in this wonderful experience. I feel that I have learned a lot about our country's government and its people. The Rotary organization is doing a great thing in running this program, and I hope they will continue to give students from this area an opportunity to participate in what I consider to be a truly unique and wonderful experience.

Busv weekend at Home Show

Hundreds of residents visited the Haliburton County Home Builders' Annual Home and Recreational Show held May 3 and 4 at the Minden Curling Club. Even the weather co-operated with rainy conditions Saturday providing an ideal excuse for the serious buyers and the curious to drop in. The more than 50 exhibitors report a steady stream of visitors to the booths, above. And, while the parents were talking to the experts about building the youngsters were doing a little building of their own. Show coordinator Aggie Tose, right, helps some of the youngsters with their own Lego building projects. This was the fifth annual Home and Recreational Show sponsored by the builders.

Drug charges

The OPP has charged a Stanhope man following the discovery of an alleged marijuana growing operation in his home.

Investigating officer detective constable Craig Pulfrey reports the force seized a quantity of growing and dried marijuana, lights and timers from the property after executing a search warrant May 1. A quantity of firearms and ammunition was also seized.

Charged with a number of narcotics and Criminal Code offences is 49 year old Paul Travers. He is scheduled to appear in Minden court June 4.

Service awards presentedHeart foundation honours its many volunteers

The Haliburton County chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario hosted a number of guests at its annual volunteer dinner Friday evening.

Area coordinator, Linda Black was on hand to tell the chapter about the dangers of heart disease and women. She told the group that the symptoms of heart attack are sometimes not as obvious in women as they are in men, and consequently tend to go unreported.

Black pointed out that women suffer the same risk factors as men plus the additional risks incurred by menopause and the effects of using oral contraceptives, a relationship that is still relatively unstudied. It also appears that women wait longer to report symptoms of heart disease. This may be due to family responsibilities coupled with home making and work.

The local chapter of the Foundation will be providing the area with two new programs this year. "Living With Stroke" is a support program and a "Heart to Heart" program is also being planned. These programs will run in addition to the "Fly Higher" program, which is designed to help girls aged 13 to 18, make wise health decisions.

The Heart and Stroke Foundation also promotes a number of fund-raising ventures every year. Canvassing door to door in February and the annual Jump Rope for Heart campaign, are examples of fund-raising projects in our community.

The guest speaker for the evening was Duncan Campbell, who came from Toronto for the banquet. Campbell chairs the human resources sector of the Provincial Development Committee for the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

He spoke to the group about the revenues of the Foundation which are nearing $40 million. As well he answered questions from the members about the provincial sector of the foundation. Campbell praised the work of the volunteers and spoke highly of the foundation's role as an educator and health promoter.

A number of awards were presented and a group of volunteers and local businesses were recognized for their contributions to the Heart and Stroke Foundation. Past president Lloyd Griffiths was presented with his past president's pin by current president Barbara Hodgson.

Receiving their five year pins were: Norma

Douglas, Alice Jones, George Bartley, Fern Donnelly, Morris Duff, Adele Burns, Jan McMaster, Al Gostock and Eve Stata.

Duncan Campbell, of the Provincial Development Committee for the Heart and Stroke Foundation, spoke to the Haliburton County volunteers at the annual dinner.

The recipients of five year pins for volunteer work with the Heart and Stroke Foundation included: Norma Douglas, Alice Jones, George Bartley, Fern Donnelly, Morris Duff, Adele Burns, Jan McMaster, Al Gostock and Eve Stata.

Elevate Your Expectations

Job shadowing leads Steven Alexander Due South

"Action!"

That was what one word a lucky grade eight student got to hear when he job shadowed at Alliance Films, on the set of the television show Due South.

Archie Stouffer Elementary School student, Steven Alexander made his way to Toronto, April 29 to observe and job shadow art director Peter Emmink. The shadowing was arranged by ASES teacher Joyce Pruyers, a friend of the art director.

"I really like the film industry, I'd like to be an actor," says Alexander on why he wanted to shadow on a television set.

Alexander experienced first hand how television productions come together. Aside from observing all the tricks of the art director's trade, such as how to make new objects look old, Alexander played an "extra" in three of the scenes that were being filmed that day.

In order to play the "extra," Alexander had to cover up all the logos on his shirt. No product endorsements can be taped in the scenes, and that includes Maple Leafs insignias and clothing logos. Alexander also accompanied the crew as they went scouting for places to shoot the next day's scenes.

Alexander had the chance to meet and be photographed with the star of the show, Paul Gross, who plays the R.C.M.P. officer Fraser.

When asked what he discovered after his day on the set, Alexander replied, "I learned that the actors don't do all the work."

The day's filming took place on two sets and a number of scenes were shot, most of them taking between 13 and 15 takes each. Alexander explains that the days are long and most people work on the set from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"As I was leaving, Paul Gross said to me 'Very good acting. I hope you can come back on the set,'" recalls Alexander, an invitation he's looking forward to accepting.

Entrepreneurial students learn about the business of franchising

The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Entrepreneurship class learned a little about enterprising ventures last week as they hosted a first ever Franchising Fair.

The class was required earlier in the semester to research a variety of known franchises for a class assignment. Their teacher, Irv Sternberg, provided the list of 500 possible franchises from which to choose.

The idea of holding a fair to tell the general public about the franchises, came from student Robert Flewelling who felt that the massive amounts of information that came into the hands of the students should be shared with the community.

The fair was promoted through posters, flyers and a telemarketing campaign, all of which were undertaken by the students. Participation in the franchise fair was not mandatory. The students who wanted to take part did so.

Members of the Grade Eight Archie Stouffer Elementary School Band who recently travelled to Bancroft to compete in the North Hastings Music Festival.

ASES music students excel

The Archie Stouffer Elementary School Grade 8 band competed in the North Hastings Music Festival April 30. Unfortunately there were no other bands competing against the school this year. The students competed against other members of their band and competed as a group for placing and constructive criticism from an adjudicator. A number of the band members competed as soloists, or as members of duets or ensembles in addition to performing with the band.

Placing in the solo woodwind category were Michelle Fowler - first, Tara Colman - second and Heather McKelvey and Liz Thompson tying for third. In the brass solo category, Shawna Ray placed first.

In the duet category, Shawna Ray and Jeremy Johnson placed first and Michelle Fowler and Steve Alexander placed second.

Placing first in the Small Ensembles class was the Woodwind Quintet with "Ode to Joy".

Members in the ensemble include: Sarah Wilbee, Liz Thompson, Michelle Fowler, Tara Colman and Christine Barnes. The second place winners were the woodwind ensemble comprised of: Liz Thompson, Heather McKelvey, Kaila Rawlings, Michelle Fowler, Tara Colman, Sarah Wilbee, Christine Barnes, Sara McGuire and Jen Christian, and placing third in the class was the brass ensemble of: Jeremy Johnson, Brian Farrell, Margaret Berube, Shawna Ray, Elizabeth Brown, Sean Carrell, Raymond Shim and Jeff Pentney.

The entire grade eight band competed and placed first in the Elementary School Band Class - Second Year Band. Members who have not already been mentioned include: Mimi Cho, Katie Cox, Christine Hayes, Caleb Loughheed, Brittany Prentice, Emily Brandon, Heather Little, Keegan Mackenzie, Krista Matysek, Jen Christian, Kelly Johnston and Curtis Robinson.

If you're interested in hearing the students perform in person, their Music Night is coming up! Admission is free, May 29 at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in the gym. The grade seven and eight bands will be performing as well as a number of ensembles, duets and soloists. The show starts at 7:30 p.m. and goes to 9:00 p.m.

Saxophonist Paul Brodie entertains ASES music students

The melodious sounds of the saxophone were heard throughout Archie Stouffer Elementary School last week. And this time it wasn't the students making all the noise.

The senior students welcomed world renowned saxophonist Paul Brodie to the school. He performed and hosted an information session on the saxophone for the senior students and provided saxophone players and other band members with a clinic on improving their techniques.

Brodie has performed all over the world, appeared in 49 recordings and is an Officer of the Order of Canada.

Brodie brought four saxophones with him to the elementary school, one in particular was especially important as it is the oldest known sax that was actually made by the hands of the original inventor of the saxophone, Adolphe Sax. The instrument was constructed in 1844, and is made of brass.

The other saxophones Brodie brought with him were the rare sopranino saxophone, the soprano saxophone and the most famous of all saxes, the alto saxophone. He played all four instruments for the students to give them an idea of the saxes' individual sounds.

Paul Brodie, playing the oldest known sax made by the instrument's inventor, for the senior students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Acid rain report

The following report on acid precipitation was recorded at the Ministry of Environment and Energy site at Dorset.

This report covers the period April 6 to May 5:

- April 6: 10.2 mm of rain with a pH of 4.04
- April 12: 10.6 mm of snow with a pH of 4.48
- April 16: 5.4 mm of rain with a pH of 4.31
- April 19: 9.6 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.72
- April 27: 7.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.41
- April 28: 2.8 mm of rain with a pH of 4.96
- April 30: 3.4 mm of rain with a pH of 3.88
- May 1: 8.4 mm of mixed snow and rain with a pH of 4.72
- May 2: 4.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.42
- May 3: 24.4 mm of rain with a pH of 4.65
- May 5: 14.0 mm of rain with a pH of 4.62

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH readings of less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are considered serious.

Residents need gardening buddies

Hello everyone. How was your week? We certainly had a good one. At our happy hour on May 2 we welcomed Jean McClintock who entertained us on the piano. Jean also plays piano during the regular monthly visit of the Salvation Army to our home. John Menzies' music was once again enjoyed on Saturday. Saturday also saw visitors for Muriel Harrison and Nina Prentice. Their nephew from Baltimore, along with a couple of friends, were visiting the Russell home. Nina and Muriel were invited to the home for a meal.

On Sunday afternoon the activity staff provided us with our much loved ice cream. In the evening the regular chapel service was held. Rev. John Burgess officiated with Jack and his wife assisting. Then later on we were informed that the elevator was out of service. This caused only a minor inconvenience as it was almost bedtime and it was repaired very quickly the next morning.

A full bus left early Monday morning for a spring shopping trip to Huntsville. Every resident was assisted by a volunteer. Where would we be without our volunteers? Just try and shop when you have a slight problem, have trouble with mobility, need help with decision making etc. That is why our volunteers are gold to us.

On Wednesday, 16 of us rolled up our sleeves and pitched in to prepare our own country lunch. Who would have thought that peeling, chopping and slicing vegetables etc. would be so much fun. But that is what happens when friends get together, once again with help from volunteers. And we certainly enjoyed reaping the benefits of our labour. A home cooked meal along with fresh home made bread (we ate three loaves) and cookies.

It's time again to bid a welcome to Bessie Burke, Jean Steinberg and Alice Hopper to our home, and we say goodbye to Lorraine Roberts, who was transferred to Extendicare in Haliburton to be closer to her family, and Lloyd Curry who was here on vacation. We enjoyed Lloyd's short visit with us.

Senior League

Our tea party this afternoon will be put on by the Sunshine Sisters of Carnarvon. This is a new group to us and we are looking forward to meeting them.

We celebrated "Mother's Day" with a mother and daughter social on May

9. To all you mothers out there we hope you enjoyed your day.

Before we sign off we have a desperate need for volunteers to assist our residents with their gardening. Won't you please help us?

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to the section 300 (1)(a) of the Municipal act, R.S.O. 1990, as amended, that the Council of the Townships of Galway and Cavendish proposes to consider, and if deemed advisable, to pass at its regular meeting to be held at the Cavendish Community Centre in the Township of Cavendish on Tuesday the 24th day of JUNE, 1997 at 8:00 p.m., By-law to stop up, close and convey those parcels of land more particularly described as follows:-

A)	Part (s) 1,2,4,5,6	45R-10772
B)	Part (s) 1,6,7,8,9,10	45R-10773
C)	Part (s) 1	45R-10743
D)	Part (s) 1,2,3,4	45R-10820
E)	Part (s) 1	45R-10649
F)	Part (s) 1	45R-10757
G)	Part (s) 3	45R-10742
H)	Part (s) 1	45R-10651
I)	Part (s) 2,4	45R-10829

Registered in the Registry Office in Peterborough, and to sell and convey the respective parts to the respective lot owners adjoining the said respective parts, or their nominees.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE THAT before the passing of the said By-laws at its regular meeting to be held at the time and place above mentioned the Council of the Townships of Galway and Cavendish will then and there hear in person or by his/her counsel, solicitor or agent any person who claims that his/her land will be prejudicially affected by the said By-laws and who applies to be heard.

Dated at the Townships of Galway and Cavendish, Kinmount, Ontario this 05th day of May, 1997.

The Kinmount United Church is having a hot and cold buffet in the Kinmount Legion Hall on Saturday, May 17 from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Last summer there were a lot of disappointed lawn bowlers when they learned they wouldn't be able to continue bowling because the building they were in was "unsafe". A committee has been working hard to try and ensure that there will be lawn bowling this summer. There is an ad in the classified section of this week's edition of The Times reminding members of a meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. If you are interested in lawn bowling this summer, please try to attend.

Speaking of summer activities, the Minden Seniors Shuffleboard Club meets this Wednesday, May 14, 2-4 p.m., at the common room at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. New members 55 and over are welcome. Light refreshments will be served.

Marvella Smith of the County Town Museum wants to try to put Minden on the map. She thinks the community can do this by establishing a record for the "World's Largest Ball of String". To get the ball rolling, so to speak, Marvella suggests the ball could be located in the driving shed at the museum between the one room school house and the Bowron Home. Currently, the record is held by a community in Texas with a ball which is 41'6" in circumference or 13'2-1/2" in diameter and it took over two years to gather enough string to create this giant ball. Let's have some fun with this - bring your string and "get the ball rolling".

The "New Beginnings" bereavement support group will be meeting at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 15 in the Minden United Church basement.

It was interesting to note that one of the winners of the moms and daughters look-alike contest put on by the magazine "Country Woman" were the Schwartzentrubers from our very own Minden.

The Alzheimer Society of Peterborough and Area announcements:

1) Wednesday, May 14 from 1:30-3:00 p.m., the last support group meeting until September will be held at the Murray St. Baptist Church, 175 Murray St., Peterborough.

2) Tuesday, May 20 from 12-2 p.m., the last brown bag lunch (for private chatting and visiting) until September will be held at 243 Charlotte St., Peterborough.

3) Open meeting to anyone interested in Alzheimers on Wednesday, May 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marycrest Home for the Aged, 200 St. Luke's Ave., Peterborough. Refreshments served.

If you have questions please call 705-748-5131.

Just a reminder of the opening of the Pritchard House on Saturday, May 17 where you can watch artisans of the county at work. See weavers dressing a loom or find out about the available workshops and demonstrations. And don't forget the bake sale and flea market, all from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. See you there.

It's tourism time again and what better way to show off your town than to have it neat and clean and all garbage receptacles in use.

And that includes picking up after your dog. I'm amazed when I see a dog owner leave the "gift" behind for all to enjoy - NOT!

The Minden Women's Institute meeting will be held on Wednesday May 21 at 2:00 p.m. (with a plant sale) at the home of Don Berry. Members, please check the roll call. Convenor Bea will have her paper and for a ride call the president or secretary. All ladies are welcome.

I was asked to print this little story about a South Water St. resident who discovered that his fairly large composter had vanished. All attempts to locate it had failed. Even bears were blamed for its disappearance. But a visiting Sherlock Holmes came up with the logical answer when bits of charred plastic were found. Moral: ashes make good compost, but be wary of the hot coals.

St. Paul's Friendship Club winners of last week's euchre included Ed Braithwaite for most lone hands and wife Barb for the low score. Betty Hardy and Gladys Wruth had the high scores while Verna McDonald won the 50/50 draw. You can have fun too by joining them every Monday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

Monday evening euchre players met 9 kms north of Carnarvon at Club 35 last week and Jean Randell and Garth Windsor had the high scores while Olive Jones and Bill Jordan had the low scores. Most lone hands went to Murray Daniels and Grace Cowen won the 50/50 draw while the coveted baloney award went to Helen Windsor. Join in the fun every Monday at 7:30 p.m. - partners are not required.

Stanhope Library top 3 contract bridge players from last week's fun and games were Vange Croucher (it pays to rest all winter), Ross Fletcher and third, Wynne Hansen. Two small slams were bid and made by Betty Culley and Dorothy Strype and by Betty (again) and Wynne Hansen. They were pleased to have 6 tables going. Come out and test your skills every Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 p.m. No partners needed.

Seniors bid euchre winners from the Minden Legion last week were Ann Baker, Marg McAfee and third, Marg Fletcher. The hidden score was found by Irene Fuhr and Howard Smith who tied while the two Margs got the only 2 moonshots. Meet Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m.

The woodcarvers demonstration and display held in the Lochlin Community Centre last weekend brought in over 200 thankful people. It was a great success said Gerald.

Euchre results from Lochlin May 6: Gerald Hicks lone hands, Merv Gilbert and Betty Hicks high score, Cec Robinson and Murray MacKinnon low score. Meet again in Lochlin on May 20 and in Gelert on May 13 at 7:30 p.m.

HEALTH NEWS

(More good advice from the "Sneaker-Day-Walk-in-Minden-on-May-16" committee).

Regular participation in physical activity can increase a senior's life span by as much as two years. The benefits, physical and mental, of active living may be viewed as a gain in years or a higher performance and functional capacity at a specific age. Both provide a higher quality of life. In addition, encouraging normal physical activity in children is an essential tool in preventing obesity.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Edith Luke would sincerely like to thank Hyland Crest staff who cared for Mom so lovingly and each palliative care volunteer for their time and gentle words at our time of sadness. Basil and Larry, you are special. Thank you to our neighbours, friends and relatives for their contributions of food, time, lovely flowers and support for us. Also, a big hug for a dear friend Phyllis for being with Lynn and our friend and neighbour Gwen for being there also and the nice supper. Gord Monk and family did a splendid job of taking care of us and our needs. A very nice service was held for our Mom. Thank you everyone for caring and to Father Brian for taking time to call, it was most welcome.

A warm and sincere thank you to our family for the most wonderful 50th Anniversary Celebration. To all our relatives and friends for their best wishes, lovely cards and gifts. To everyone who helped in any way, each of you made it so special. Many thanks again, Laverne & Ruth Thomas.

...your character is shown by what you do when there is nothing to do.

CARDS OF THANKS

On behalf of our Aunt Laura Dean, our aunts and cousins, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the members of the Haliburton County community for their expressions of support and understanding at the passing of Lori Dean. Special thanks must go to Marj and Rose Baldry, Deloris and Glen Blair and Ruth and John McGraw, the Homemakers, V.O.N's, Extencicare Palliative Care, Haliburton County Hospice, Doctors Howalchuk and Heyes, Haliburton Community Funeral Home and a special thank you to the Haliburton Chapter of Women on Snow, Ladies Auxiliary Branch 128 and the Rev. Christopher Grieves. The Families Dean, Iles, Fetterly, McMahon, Golden and Maunder.

The families of the late Richard Walker wish to extend special thanks to Gordon Monk for taking the service for Richard in January and to Barry Cray and his helper Scott Walker for the service at Gelert Cemetery on April 28, 1997.

IN MEMORIAM

BRYANT, Louella - In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away May 7, 1991.

*Memories are treasures
No one can steal,
Death is a heartbreak
No one can heal,
Life will go on,
We know that is true,
But never be the same
Since we lost you.
Oh Lord forgive me if I ask why
Thorns live on and roses die.
Forever loved by your daughter
Shirley, granddaughter
Andrea and grandsons

CREGO, Alex - In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away May 11, 1974.

*You had a smile for everyone
You had a heart of gold,
You left the greatest memories
That we could ever hold.
To us you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts
That you were here today.
Lovingly remembered by Mom, brothers and sisters.*
